

Correction of Smyth et al. (2023). What Constitutes Successful Goal Pursuit? Exploring the Relation Between Subjective and Objective Measures of Goal Progress

---

Personality Science, 2023, Vol. 4, Article e13229, <https://doi.org/10.5964/ps.13229>

Published (VoR): 2023-11-21

---

In the published version of

Smyth, A., Milyavskaya, M., Friese, M., Werner, K., Frech, M.-L., Loschelder, D., Anderson, J., Inzlicht, M., Kolbuszewska, M., & Wang, K. (2023). What constitutes successful goal pursuit? Exploring the relation between subjective and objective measures of goal progress. Personality Science, 4, Article e12017. <https://doi.org/10.5964/ps.12017>

Zoë Francis (<https://orcid.org/0000-0002-9488-9132>; affiliation: University of the Fraser Valley) should have been listed as the fifth author and the following note should have been included in the “Author Contributions” section:

Zoë Francis—Resource provision (materials, participants, etc.) | Data collection | Data management (storage, curation, processing, etc.) | Feedback, revisions.

Personality Science (PS) is an official journal of the European Association of Personality Psychology (EAPP).

leibniz-psychology.org

PsychOpen GOLD is a publishing service by Leibniz Institute for Psychology (ZPID), Germany.

This is an open access article distributed under the terms of the Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License, CC BY 4.0, which permits unrestricted use, distribution, and reproduction, provided the original work is properly cited.